“VESUVIO: Blood of Naples” — A New Mafia Saga Set Against the Naples Skyline

Naples / 2026 — Creator Ciprian Stefan Plesca today unveiled the complete pitch package for VESUVIO: Blood of Naples, an original modern mafia television series set in the heart of Naples, Italy. The project arrives with a completed story bible, full character bible, Season 1 episode guide, pilot script, original Neapolitan-dialect theme song, and cinematic key art — a fully packaged property ready for studio and streaming partnership conversations.

“Every city has a dark heart,” said creator Ciprian Stefan Plesca. “This is Naples — and this is the story of what happens when the peace holding that darkness in check finally breaks.”

Set against the ever-present shadow of Mount Vesuvius, VESUVIO: Blood of Naples follows a Neapolitan crime family navigating the collapse of a decade-long truce, exploring loyalty, betrayal, and power across three generations. The series is written with an uncompromising commitment to authenticity, including dialogue performed in genuine Neapolitan dialect.

The project’s original theme song — a Neapolitan-dialect duet blending traditional motifs with dark, melodic-trap production — is available now alongside the full pitch package.

VESUVIO: Blood of Naples is currently seeking production partners, financing, and distribution conversations. Full materials are available at the project’s public repository.
